STUDENT ADMISSIONS + ENROLMENT

Can I take a break from my course to travel overseas?

You can suspend your enrolment to take a leave of absence, for example to travel, for up to a maximum of 12 months. If you want to suspend your enrolment for a longer duration, you will be required to withdraw from the course and re-apply when you are ready to recommence your study.

Applications to suspend your enrolment should be made no later than five working days before Census Date to avoid academic and/or financial penalty.

What is the longest time I can take to complete a course?

How long you take to complete your course of study at ICAT depends on a number of factors such as the duration of your course, your study load, your academic progression and if you take any time away from our studies. Generally, the maximum number of subjects you can take per trimester is four (for a full-time study load) and the minimum number of subjects per trimester is two (for a part-time study load).

What is a census date?

Census Dates are the official deadline for finalising your enrolment and fees without incurring any academic and/or financial penalties. For example, if you wish to withdraw your enrolment or change to a part-time study load, you must do so before the relevant Census Date to avoid a 'Withdrawn Fail' on your academic transcript and incurring a fee liability for those subjects.

Each trimester has its own Census Date and these listed in the Academic Calendar and Student Handbook.

Can I defer the start of my course?

You can defer the start of your course for up to a maximum of 12 months. If you want to defer for a longer duration, you will be required to withdraw from the course and re-apply when you are ready to recommence your study at ICAT.

Applications to defer your enrolment should be made before Census Date to avoid academic and/or financial penalty.

Can I enrol in two courses of study at the same time?

You are only allowed to enrol in one course at a time, however you may transfer courses.

If I enrol as a full-time student, can I change to part-time study after I've started the course?

You may change your study load from full-time to part-time, and vice versa, during your studies. However, to avoid academic and/or financial penalty, you should make any changes to your enrolment prior to Census Date for that trimester.

COURSE CREDIT + RPL

I have completed subjects at another institution. Can I get credit towards my course at ICAT?

If you have studied at a university or other tertiary institution, you may be eligible for course credit for the subjects you have completed. This is known as Recognition of Prior Learning (or RPL) and may result in course credit via the grade 'Advanced Standing'. Advanced Standing recognises your previous study and may reduce the number of subjects required to complete your course.

What is the maximum amount of credit I can get from prior study towards a course at ICAT?

The maximum number of subjects for which exemption (course credit) may be granted is 50% of the total credit points of your course at ICAT.

How do I apply for course credit?

You apply for course credit by submitting an Application for Course Credit and attaching the following documents for the subject/s you are seeking exemption from:

Academic transcript(s) of previous courses of study including year completed and grades attained

Subject outlines and/or course description including information on learning outcomes.

Applications for course credit should be made before Census Date to avoid academic and/or financial penalty.

I completed a Diploma course at ICAT, can I get credit if enrol now into an ICAT Bachelor Degree?

If you passed all twelve subjects of an ICAT Diploma course, you may then articulate into an ICAT Bachelor Degree course. The maximum number of subjects for which credit may be granted is 12 subjects, but this depends on the Diploma you completed and the Bachelor Degree you are enrolling into.

UNIVERSITY PATHWAYS + EMPLOYMENT

Can I go on to study a Bachelor Degree after I finish my Diploma?

After successful completion of your diploma you can articulate into a bachelor degree at ICAT with only one extra year of full-time study.

INTERNSHIPS

What's the benefit of the internship program?

ICAT students develop professional and practical skills through our industry-recognised placement program, where they benefit from the College's ongoing relationships with hundreds of industry partners.

The internships help you to develop informed insights and build valuable experience in the workplace. You'll be learning about the value of planning and preparation and its effect on your initial job search and subsequent career progression.

Graduating students who have a paid or unpaid internship on their résumé have a much better chance at landing a full-time position upon graduation. Not only is it a great way to 'test-drive' the industry you want to work in, it can also help determine what you don't want to do as a career.

Interning is also fantastic for making professional and personal contacts, finding a mentor, learning new skills and building up a CV.

What's involved in the internship program?

Students undertake the compulsory work experience under the guidance of industry supervision generally for one to two days a week throughout the trimester.

The internship program also includes interview experience and the creation of relevant career application documents (e.g. resumés, cover letters etc).

Do I get paid for it?

It varies. Some companies offer paid internships although typically internships are unpaid.

Does ICAT assist in securing each internship?

We constantly receive offers from employers in the media, business and accounting industries requesting interns. Our lecturers are industry practitioners and can assist you to find work placement in an area of your interest. It is recommended you select the internship of most interest to you and make an application.
